

Top Issues Ranking

1. Inflation / cost of living 2. Affordable housing 3. Good paying jobs 4. State and local taxes 5. K-12 education Other: Ownership of labor

2. Why did you choose those issues?

I chose these issues because they directly impact whether working people in Wisconsin can build stable, secure lives. Today, many residents are working hard but still struggling with rising costs, limited access to affordable services, and uneven economic growth. These challenges are interconnected and reflect a broader need to ensure that our economy works for everyone while maintaining long-term stability and opportunity.

3. First Budget Priorities

My first budget will focus on efficiency, accountability, and long-term sustainability. This includes ensuring taxpayer dollars are used effectively, investing in workforce development and small business growth, exploring responsible new revenue streams such as a well-regulated cannabis market, and closing unfair tax loopholes. The goal is a balanced approach that supports growth while protecting taxpayers.

4. Education Policy

My administration will prioritize equitable school funding, teacher support, and improved academic outcomes. We will invest in literacy, modernize curriculum, and expand career and technical pathways. I also support making higher education more accessible and affordable for Wisconsin residents, ensuring students are prepared for long-term success.

5. Cost of Living & Economy

We will lower costs by expanding affordable housing, improving energy efficiency to reduce utility bills, increasing access to childcare, and supporting wage growth through workforce development. Economic growth will be driven by small business support, innovation, and policies that help families build long-term financial stability.

6. Politicians You Admire

Robert La Follette for his commitment to reform and public accountability, and leaders who emphasize practical governance and collaboration to deliver results for the people.

7. Dinner Guests

Marcus Garvey and Thomas Sankara, for their focus on economic empowerment, leadership, and long-term development.

8. What Wisconsin is Good At

Wisconsin stands out for its strong communities, work ethic, and tradition of innovation across manufacturing, agriculture, and small business. Its strength comes from its people and collaborative spirit.

9. Favorite Supper Club

I respect Wisconsin's supper club tradition as a symbol of community and culture, and I look forward to experiencing more across the state.

10. Respect from Opposite Party

I respect the emphasis on leadership, institutional strength, and civic engagement. Effective governance requires multiple perspectives and a shared commitment to improving outcomes for residents.
